CJP'S DISCOVER DAY SCHOOL GRANT

Choosing Jewish Day School just got easier!

Your family may be eligible for up to $18,000 toward day school tuition. The combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP) has expanded their Discover day School Grant Program from 2011 to include any Elementary or Middle School child that is the first in the family to enter a Jewish day school. The Discover Day School Grant aims to target:

- K-8th grade students entering day school in Fall 2012;
- The child must be first in the family to attend a Jewish day school;
- "Middle tier" income families — Check out the eligibility calculator at www.discoverdayschool.org.

The Discover Day School Grant is:

- A voucher submitted to the school of your choice that covers 25 percent — up to $6,000 — of tuition;
- Applicable toward tuition in the fall of 2012 and the following two years;
- In lieu of financial assistance.

Important Dates to Remember:

- 01.09.12—Application available online
- 03.09.12 — CJP Discover Day School check application due
- 04.16.12 — CJP Discover Day School check submitted to school of choice

Please see the other side of this sheet for Frequently Asked Questions. For more information, please visit the Discover Day School website, www.discoverdayschool.org.

Discover Day School: Frequently Asked Questions

A Community plan grounded in research and data

CJP's Affordability Initiative is a volunteer effort led by CJP's Day School Education Commission (DSEC). At its core is the belief that all Jewish children should have access to a Jewish day school education.

In a two-year study conducted by the DSEC, findings proved that many middle tier income families value the benefits of Jewish day school, but are discouraged by the high cost of tuition and long-term impact on their savings. These findings led to CJP's Discover Day School Program.

What is a "middle tier" income family?

These are families who do not qualify for substantial (if any) financial assistance from day schools, yet find the cost of day school education prohibitive. Middle tier families considering day school often decide against enrolling on the basis of cost, and so never discover the value it can provide their children and family. CJP's Discover Day School Program is designed for this group of families.

Why "first in the family"?

The purpose of CJP's Discover Day School Program is to lower financial barriers for families who have not yet experienced all that our Jewish day schools have to offer. Therefore, this pilot program requires that the student receiving a CJP Discover Day School Check be the "first in the family" to attend a Jewish day school.

Why in lieu of financial assistance?

CJP's Discover Day School Program requires families to choose between school-based financial assistance and CJP Discover Day School Checks. Day schools already provide substantial financial assistance to families on the lower end of the income spectrum. These families generally receive greater financial assistance than they would with CJP's Discover Day School Checks. Those who opt for a Discover Day School Check will be families who receive either no financial assistance or a smaller award than the Discover Day School Check value. Because Discover Day School has been structured to dovetail with school-based financial assistance programs, DDS Checks can only apply to grades where the school also makes financial assistance available.

(Arrow Image here

<http://discoverdayschool.org/about-us/>)

The start of a solution

Funds for the CJP Discover Day School Program are the result of generous designated gifts by visionary and passionate day school supporters. They understand the value of day school as well as the financial challenge families face. This pilot program is one component of a broader effort to address day school affordability. The CJP Discover Day School Program will bring to the schools a new pipeline of students whose families might have opted out due to cost. The schools and current students will all benefit from the infusion of increased revenue, spirit and energy these students and their families will bring.

FINANCIAL AID INFORMATION 2012–13

Maimonides School is committed to making its Financial Aid program available to all families who seek a Maimonides education for their children. This has been one of the core values of our institution since it was founded in 1937 by Rabbi Soloveitchik, ז"ר, and it remains a priority today. To that end, Maimonides encourages any family to apply for financial aid who feels cost is a significant barrier to their child's being able to attend our school.

The Financial Aid Program is overseen by Maimonides School's Tuition Committee. All applications and financial information are handled confidentially. Maimonides School does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, or national or ethnic origin in administration of its financial aid program.

Maimonides School's admissions decisions are need-blind and are not influenced by a family's financial situation.

Application Process

The process for applying for financial aid for the 2012-13 school year consists of completing an online application and submitting the required documentation, including copies of your filed 2011 federal and state tax returns.

- Instructions for filing the online application, and the link to the application itself, will be featured on the Maimonides website as of January 3, 2012.
- February 17, 2012, is the preferred deadline for filing a financial aid application.

Families who file a financial aid application and submit their tax returns and other required documentation on or before February 17, 2012, will be informed of their aid grant in the enrollment packet mailed out with acceptance letters on March 9. Families who file an application after February 17 and/or submit their tax documentation after February 17 will be informed within three weeks of their applications being considered complete.

Financial Aid Timeline, 2012–13

Financial aid is granted on an annual basis, for the coming academic year only. All families wishing to be considered for financial aid must complete a new application each year so that our Tuition Committee may evaluate their financial aid award(s) on the basis of their most current financial picture.

January 3, 2012	Online financial aid application link (with instructions) will be posted on the Maimonides website at this location: http://www.maimonides.org/attending/financialAid.php
February 17, 2012	Preferred deadline for filing a financial aid application online.
March 9, 2012	Decision letters are mailed with enrollment packets for accepted students. Families who meet the February 17 deadline for submitting all required financial aid documentation (including filed tax returns) will also receive notification of their aid grant in this mailing.
April 12, 2012	Enrollment deadline for 2012-13. A non-refundable registration fee of $650 per student is collected at the time of enrollment.

For Further Assistance

We know the financial aid process can be a stressful one, and we strive to make it as accessible and user-friendly as possible. Please contact Arline Tannenbaum, Tuition and Financial Aid Administrator, at (617) 232-4452 x425 or atannenbaum@maimonides.org at any time with your questions regarding the financial aid process.

Maimonides School, established in 1937, is a co-educational K–12 Orthodox Jewish Day School dedicated to excellence in learning and life, guided by the truths of Jewish tradition and the attainments of the human spirit, as expressed in both Judaic and General Studies.

Throughout the four years of Upper School, each student is required to carry a dual curriculum of up to ten major courses each term. To complete this dual curriculum, students are required to be in school from 8AM to 5:30PM or later each school day. This rigorous program prepares students academically and teaches them to value their Jewish heritage.

Student Population

Maimonides draws most of its students from the Metropolitan Boston area, although some students travel from as far away as Connecticut, Maine, and Rhode Island. The Upper School (Grades 9–12) consists of 210 students, and the Class of 2012 includes 51 seniors. Ninety-nine percent of our graduates continue their studies in a four-year college or university. Many students opt to spend their first year after graduation studying in Israel.

Academic Overview

The school year is divided into two semesters. All courses on the transcript, except physical education, are included in the Cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA). Advanced Placement, Honors, and Accelerated Courses are designated on the transcript. All of our courses are college preparatory with Accelerated courses taught at a deeper level. Honors courses are taught at a significantly deeper level and at a faster pace than Accelerated courses. AP courses are taught as college courses. Please note that we had a change in the structure and labeling of most of our General Studies courses beginning last year. As a result some students shifted from Honors to Accelerated courses. Curricular details are on page 2 of this Profile.

Maimonides School does not compute class rank.

Grading System

In an effort to help admissions officers interpret our transcripts, we offer this correspondence of numerical averages. Please note that Maimonides School does not weight any grades.

Graduation Requirements

To graduate from Maimonides School, students must complete the following course of study in General Studies and Judaic Studies:

General Studies Requirements
Subject	Required # of Years
English	4
Mathematics	3
Science	2
History	3
Seniors must take a minimum of four General Studies classes.

Judaic Studies Requirements
Subject	Required # of Years
Talmud	4
Bible (Prophets and Torah)	4
Hebrew (Advanced Modern)	4
Issues in Jewish Thought	2
Jewish History	2

Talmud: The study of Talmud, the core of Jewish law, examined in the original text (Aramaic language), engages the student’s legal, philosophic, and linguistic abilities through a synthesis of cooperative-partnership learning, lecture, and the Socratic method. The ancient and rich dialogue of the Rabbis is a source of the students’ understanding of Jewish law and customs. Students study Talmud each year of their upper school career in classes that meet for a total of 7 periods each week.

Bible: The study of the Torah and Prophets and the medieval and modern commentaries, read in the original text and analyzed philosophically and historically, is an integral part of the Judaic Studies curriculum. These courses meet a total of 5–7 periods each week.

Hebrew: Hebrew language and literature are taught on an advanced level in the Upper School years because students usually begin studying Hebrew in the first grade.

These are the minimum requirements for graduation. Many students exceed the minimum.

Curriculum Features

- Length of School Day: 9.5 hours (8AM–5:30PM)
- Number of Periods in a School Day: 9
- Number of AP Courses Open to Juniors: 1 (U.S. History)
- Number of AP Courses Open to Seniors: 4 (Calculus, Biology or Chemistry, U.S. Government, English Literature)

High Honors courses were offered to current seniors, when they were students in Grades 9 and 10 in math, but that label is no longer in our system. Honors courses were, and are, offered to students in Grades 9-12 in most Judaic Studies and General Studies subjects. Accelerated classes are available in some subjects and are taught on a level just below the honors level.

Awards

Please note that school-based academic awards are given out only to graduating seniors at Maimonides School.

Senior Project Shalom

Over the winter and spring of their senior year, Maimonides students participate in Senior Project Shalom, a volunteer work program one day per week. During this time, seniors have no Wednesday classes; instead, they spend the full day engaged in volunteer work and learning at their specific project sites.

Independent Project

Independent Projects allow seniors to explore a particular area of non-traditional academic interest. During the first semester of senior year, students will choose a category of study such as preparing a thesis, art or performance art, scientific or other research, or others to be proposed by students. They begin researching and planning for their individual course of study, identifying a specific skill or subject they wish to pursue. Each student creates a proposal as to what it is they wish to do, what means they will employ to reach their goal, and a proposed schedule. They then present their proposals to a faculty panel for approval. In the second semester of senior year, they pursue their goals, either on campus with a faculty advisor or off-campus with a professional mentor.

Extracurricular Activities

Maimonides School offers a wide range of extracurricular activities including competitive athletic teams (basketball, baseball, soccer, volleyball, tennis, and softball), mock trial, Model United Nations, newspaper, literary magazine, yearbook, jazz band, choir, drama, math team, student government, and a Judaic publication. In addition, there is a very strong community service program which students in the Upper School pursue avidly.
